

The Key to success -Be Concentric

A great Holy Man said, the only way to success is “Be concentric”. It is the secret path to achieve everything.

Everyone dreams to be a great person, a successful person. But a person can be said as successful if one has 4 balanced aspects in it's life. A balanced healthy Personal life, professional life, family life, social life. If any one aspect gets disturbed and although it has a very big name and fame or very good bank balance, still he/she can not be said as a successful person. But how can it be possible to maintain a successful life from every aspect? Varieties of suggestions may come.

Like,

Plan out your goal.

Seas your points of distraction.

Focus on your goal and keep trying to move in the path overcoming all the obstacles.

Try to imagine and visualize your dream and many more.

I must say these are the beautiful ways to take you to your dream, but most of the time these are one way solution.

Sometime we find very difficult when we focus on our career, we make our family life disturbed, or we compromise with our personal health and mind, that is how by the time we earn something we lose many things at the other side.

But if we learn the trick to be concentric, it becomes easier to get and maintain the success and lead a better life.

While the word concentration comes, we visualize something like tratak i.e sitting and gazing at a point or doing some yoga postures to improve our concentration and cognitive function, yes of course these works but apart from that we'll discuss something else today.

We all love to be loved by everyone, to be praised by everyone and for that we try a lot too but always remain unsatisfied. The real satisfaction comes when we love someone or something wholeheartedly and get the same in return. Most important and secret psychology of human being is when we love someone we try to become like him and we try to follow him without any doubt and complain. There inadvertently we nurture our love centre and get the spark to move ahead, to reach the ultimate. Here comes a balance in life which we call as real yoga.

So, higher and broader the centre of love, the ideal, the better. For, as high and broad our Ideal is, so high and broad we too become. Only we need to take to the habit of a creeper and entwined around the tree of the ideal; fulfilment of desire shall be ours.

There comes the concentration automatically. We get the energy, the direction, the guidance, the knowledge to solve the problems and to overcome the obstacles physically, mentally, and spiritually.

This is the only easiest way to become a successful person and to maintain a great successful life.
